NAU MAI HAERE MAI KI ROTORUA

We welcome you to Rotorua where our geothermal wonderland, indigenous Māori culture and incredible natural landscapes intertwine to create unique and rejuvenating experiences.

The birthplace of Māori tourism

In the 1880s, it was the local Māori women who guided manuhiri (visitors) that travelled from around the world to soak in the mineral-rich hot waters flowing over the famous Pink and White Terraces.

Te Puia

Some, like Guide Sophia and Guide Maggie, became famous worldwide and set the standard for their excellent guiding, hosting and storytelling.

Rotorua has been known ever since for its manaakitanga (hospitality).

Rotorua is the best place to experience the traditional customs, practices and history of our Māori people through an incredible array of Māori cultural experiences.

Otherworldly geothermal landscapes

Spouting geysers, bubbling mud pools, steaming vents, boiling lakes and colourful sinter terraces are just about everywhere in and around Rotorua.

Besides taking advantage of our glorious hot pools, we encourage you to make time to check out our spectacular geothermal parks, each one so different from the others. These incredible, surreal places will leave you in awe of the natural world and provide the most amazing backdrop for your photography.

New Zealand's spa and wellness capital

Since forever ago, we've been bathing in the natural spring-fed hot pools that abound in Rotorua.

We're lucky to have a variety to enjoy, from rural to secluded, to nearly the middle of the city.

Although the terraces were buried in the 1886 volcanic eruption of Mt Tarawera, there are still plenty of natural, geothermally heated pools to soak in, including the mineral-rich mud at Hell's Gate, cherished by Māori for its healing properties, and the iconic Polynesian Spa which has been the go-to for geothermal bathing and spa treatments for more than half a century.

New to Rotorua is the unique, award-winning $60m Māori-owned Wai Ariki Hot Springs and Spa which offers luxury experiences in an incredible setting that's already winning prestige design awards. Wai Ariki is owned by local iwi Ngāti Whakaue and grounded in their values, traditions and culture, including traditional healing practices harnessing the therapeutic thermal waters and mud of the area.

World-famous forests

Whakarewarewa Forest, also known as the Redwoods, is a haven for outdoors enthusiasts. While it's less than 10 minutes from the city centre, you'll feel worlds away.

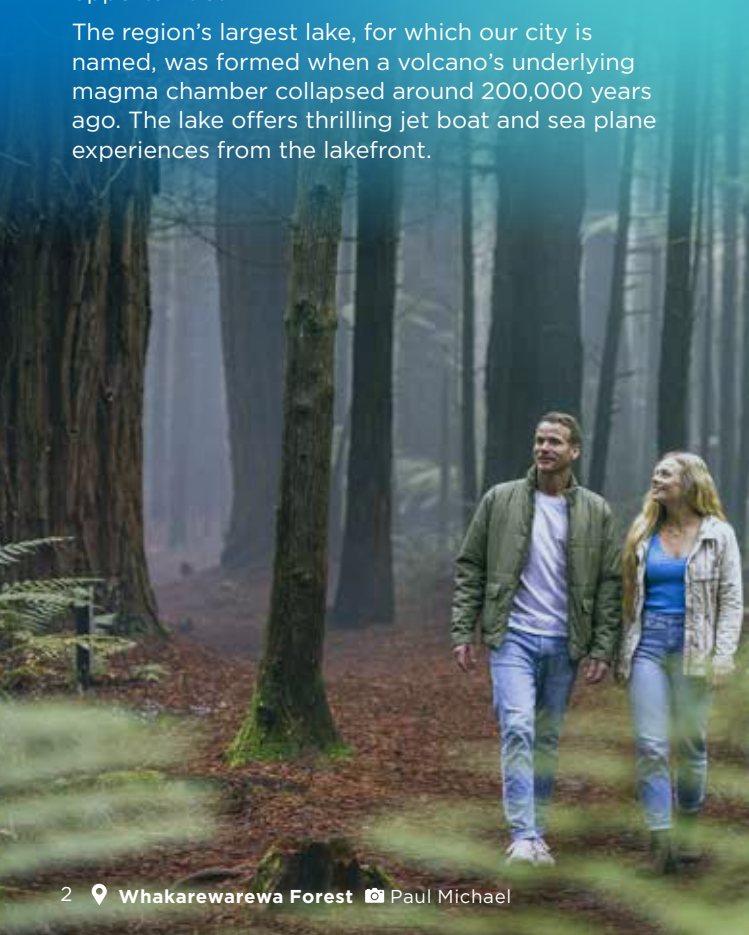

For locals and manuhiri alike, our ngahere (forest) is a sanctum for well-being whether walking, running, horseback riding, or riding the internationally renowned mountain bike trails, including New Zealand's newest Great Ride, Whakarewarewa Forest Loop.

There are walking, equestrian and mountain biking trails suitable for all ages and abilities that wind through towering California redwoods and present breath-taking views.

Pristine lakes

The Rotorua Lakes District boasts 18 sparkling lakes, each with its unique charm and recreational opportunities.

The region's largest lake, for which our city is named, was formed when a volcano's underlying magma chamber collapsed around 200,000 years ago. The lake offers thrilling jet boat and sea plane experiences from the lakefront.

Recently, the $40m lakefront redevelopment claimed two design awards for the beautiful new boardwalk and two playgrounds. The grounds have been beautifully landscaped with native plants, beautiful art, and plenty of spots to sit and admire the views. The lakefront is within easy walking distance from the city centre.

Other favourite recreational lakes include Rotoiti which is ideal for swimming and boating, with secluded hot pools accessible only by boat or floatplane, and Tikitapu for its crystal-clear water, sandy beaches and great picnic spots. Lake Tarawera, situated at the foot of Mt Tarawera, features a secluded Hot Water Beach with a spring-fed stream, and Boyes Beach at Lake Ōkāreka provides a sandy shoreline, barbeques and picnic tables.

We welcome you to relax and enjoy all that our city has to offer.
